GOULD LOSES TO NORWAY AND SOUTH PARIS

The Gould Academy baseball team was treated to a couple of setbacks at the hands of Norway and South Paris we hope to begin lessons at our next in the opening of the Oxford County schedule. Twelve costly errors paved mar school building. It is not too late the way for the downfall of the locals to get 25 chicks and join our club. New in the first game of the season which Norway took 5-3. James Cheschro was the only player having any chances that did not make at least one error, Dickey pitched fine ball and allowed only five scattered hits in seven and The men's part was testing soil for the one-third innings, while A. Chesebro The women's study was children's one and two-thirds innings, but the errors of the infield and outfield undid the fine mound work.

BETHEL ORGANIZES A BASEBALL ASSOCIATION

On Tuesday evening, May 6th, baseball enthusiasts of Bethel organized the Bethel Athletk Association, Officers elected were as follows: President-Fred Wheeler Treasurer-Hugh Thurston Secretary-Elmer Allen

Manager-Herbert R. Bean The purpose of the organization is to provide a series of amateur baseball games in which local talent will compete with like teams of surrounding towns. The success of the organization, however, depends largely upon the support given it by the citizens of Bethel. There seems to be a considerable number of capable players and if sufficient interest can be aroused among the people of the village, there is no reason why this "truly American sport" should not be enjoyed by

********** Larry, the Panhandler

By NELLIE R. GATES

OF COURSE every one who reads his daily paper knows Lawrence Storm, Sr. Hardly a day passes that the famous "sugar tycoon" is not mentioned on the financial page, But un less you are puying your sugar on the exchange instead of over the counter. his exploits do not make interesting reading. But Larry, Jr.- Lollypop Larry-that is a different story t

There is a lad who keeps the reparters on the Jump. Several newspaper men have made their reputations embelishing one of Lollypop Lary's escapades for their paper. He can spend money faster than his distingulshed dad can make it. Or could. but that is a different story, too.

Naturally most of the girls were right on their toes to please this son of Croesus. He had had everything he had ever wanted in his twentythree years hunded to him on a sil ver platter, until he met Leta Bird, the girl who made the big bit as the sophisticated little sister in Concentric Circles.

"Why is it I can't make that kid fall for me, Ruthle?" he asked Ruth Rentithe attractive, efficient young girl who was his mulier's private secretary, as she was giving him ten one afternoon under a surlet umbrella on the fawn of the Storm country house "I've given her as good a rush as I ever tried on anyone, jou. Leta Bird, I happen to know, is a splendld girl who has worked hard to get where she is. Why on earth," she suddenly blazed out at him, "why don't you stick to your chorus girls and the allly little finppers you like so well? Why should a fine girl like Leta Bird want to tall for a pan handler?"

"A what?" Astonishment and anger were mingled in Larry's question. "A what did you call me, Ruth?"

"A panhandler." definitly, "What are you but a panhandler? Lollypop Larry who never dld a day's work in his life. Who fives on his father's donnilons," "A panhandler. Why Ruth, that

HAVE never felt more optimistic than I do today about the future of business. In the fifty years that I have builded steel mills I have never builded a mill that met the demands on it that followed. With that in mind, who wouldn't be optimistic? This recent speculative wave that has hit the country has brought losses only to those people who thought they were rich. We of the factories lost nothing, for we still have wealth in the bricks and mortar and machines of our factories. Business in the United States is going to grow just as surely and just as fast in the future as it has in the past. In the steel industry alone we have a background that should inspire us. From 1,000,000 tons in 1879 to 57,000,000 in 1929, or two-thirds of the world's output is a record worthy of study. I have the greatest confidence that the industry of today will follow the path and the pace that have been outlined for it. Any business that is conducted a little better than the other fellow's is bound to succeed.

Real prosperity means prosperity, happiness and good times for the masses of the people. The average daily wage scale, excluding salaries of employees of the gigantic Bethlehem Steel corporation, the board of directors of which I am chairman, is slightly more than $7 a day. The highest possible wages lead to and indicate well-heing of the masses.

COLLEGE MEN RANK HIGH

By DR. JOHN M. THOMAS, President Rutgers University,

I am an optimist on America because of what I know concerning the quality of the young manhood of the nation. By and large they are clean, manly and honorable. They will tell the truth, almost all of them even in a tight place. They are neither yellow, nor red, nor even pink. They have much to learn, but they are learning it faster than any generation of any people on record. They prefer hard games to easy ones, difficult jobs to soft snaps. They will attend to the work that needs doing and the problems that need solving fully as well-and I honestly believe a little better-than we of the older generation have attended to ours.

The college student of today has a pretty hard time of it, for he is asked to continue the preparatory stage of life at an age when his parents were out in the world and when his grandfathers in most cases had

It is hard to be always getting ready to do something by and by. It takes a good deal of patience and grit to stick at it through the long years of preparation necessary for superior service in this complex world In youth it is the itch to get away and to get at something practical and real. Parents may well be patient, sympathetic and encouraging. Don't blame the boy for being restless and unappreciative of his opportunities. College is probably the first thing he has undertaken; challenge him to make a success of it. .

CHILDREN VICTIMS OF DIVORCE

By DISTRICT JUDGE CHARLES C. SACKMANN, Denver.

Divorce has caused more violations of the law by youths than any other one cause. During the last year more than half of the serious winter with her sister and daughter, offenses considered in my court involved men under twenty-five. Most has returned to her home. of them were on trial for aggravated robbery and grand larceny.

After a couple is divorced, the children are often sent to stay with relatives or, perhaps, with either the father or mother. The child is neglected. He plunges out "on his own" to make his own future,

There was a time when it was a disgrace to be divorced. Now peo ple pride themselves in this achievement-with no thought to the effect upon the children of their marriage. In these cases the children suffer from the loss of either the care, spiritual advice and example of a good mother or the stern discipline, companionship, counsel and restraining hand of a good father.

When divorce enters the horizon of a child he loses one or the other, or both of these heritages to which he is entitled. The child then becomes an easier victim of any criminal instinct he may have.

LEAGUE'S WORST DECADE ENDED

By SIR ERIC DRUMMOND, Secretary League of Nations.

While it is impossible to predict, and it is unwise to prophesy, I am inclined to expect that the League of Nations' next decade will mainly be occupied with a careful development along lines which are laid down already or which are projected. He who expects sensational movements is likely to be disappointed. He who recognizes that vast labor must be expended to change trails now scarcely blazed into traveled highways of international intercourse, is viewing the future of the League with soher

There is no reason to suppose that constitutional readjustments of the League are at an end, but it is unlikely that they will beneaforward occur as often as in the early years.

The League's first decade, in other words, has been to a large extent one of establishment, not altogether free from experiment. In the period to follow, the good will of the peoples and the co-operation of their leaders being assumed, this early planting should bring forth immediately bountiful harvests of mutual benefits to every community of the human

YOUTH NEEDS HOME CONTROL

By DR. SAMUEL S DRURY, Rector St. Paul's School, New York.

Both home and school seem to capital te in the presence of youth bent upon a good time, falsely so called. Schoolmasters shake their heads and parents wring their hands and youn; people do as they please The modern American summer resort becomes a place to be avoided and the Christmas holiday is a period of dread. Is a not time for parents to reassert their control and for schools to aid the home in maintaining standards of sensible behavior, not for nine non his per annum but for Concerning "retreats" in the country, I ask, "Is this right? Ought family tife be disrupted? Would not corporate invistence by home and school reclaim for youth the happy opportunity to stay young in the precious formative pears from fourteen to eighteen? Rejoice, joung man, in thy youth, should be the motto. We are a long time old,

QUALITY THAT ENDURES

THE extra value built into the new Ford car is reflected in its alert, capable performance, reliability and long life.

Beneath its flashing beauty of line and color. there is a mechanical excellence unusual in a low priced car. Many measurements are accurate to the thousandth of an inch. Every part has been carefully designed and made to give you many thousands of miles of faithful. uninterrupted service.

In safety, comfort, speed, power, economyin all that goes to make a good automobile -it is a value far above the price. The quality of the new Ford is a quality that endures.

SEGAET 25 YEARS

Lives in Sugarnded Iron Tanks, Gets No Mail and Seldom Talks.

Horntlo, Ach, -"My past in burled, ask no questions?" For a quarter of a century these curt words have been the only reply of "the tree man of Horatlo" to all who lave sought to penetrate the wall of mystery he has raised about hims if. So successful has been the recluse to relling his past that few persons ever question him now, and in fact only a few realdenis of this little town know of his existence.

It was a bitter cold night more than 25 years ago when, a few minutes after the night train south had made its brief pause here, a middle aged man walked into the small hotel and naked for a room, "Just call me Fred Brown," he replied in a German accent to questions as to his identity.

The hotel proprietor soon discovered that Brown had placed a secret lock on his door. The eccentricities of the stranger continued to arouse the curiosity of the landlord. He investigated. Finally he discovered a small iron ring at the base of the hall opposite Brown's room. A pull on the ring released the secret lack on the laside of the stranger's door, but the sudden arrival of Brown ent short any explaration by the hotel man, and a few minutes later the mystery man checked

A few days later, Brown requist foned a have east-off from tank along the rathead right-of-way, rolled it about a hundred yards away and "squatted" on land owned by Tom Green of Horatio. There he remains to this day

Cutting the ends from the old tank and then binging them as doors, Brown awang the contrivance high up in a large tree. In the tank, he estab lished his home, becoming known as the "tree man," A rope indder for pishes means of reaching the aerial house, and as soon as Brown is perched in his swinging home, the ladder is pulled up. A large piece of tin securely fastened to the trunk of the tree prevents anyone climbing up without arousing the tree dweller. In winter Brown closes the doors of his home, while they are allowed to swing open in warm weather. For many years the tank was the only abode of the recluse, but recently he has built a six-foot square slack without windows which he occupies on some of the coldest nights. ### Ontario Soon Will Be

Treasure Pot of World Toronto, Ont.-Northern Ontario will soon be the treasure per of the world, minister of inines, Hop Charles McCren said in estimating that within live years the mineral production of Ontario will reach an annual value of $200,000,000.

The minister of mines predicts that within the next ten years Ontario's mineral output will equal, if not pass, the total production of the last thirty years. The total value of Ontarlo's mineral output in 1020 was $110,000,-

The new decade will see Ontario well in the lend of Canadian provinces. in many lines, if the minister's prodetions are realized. He has pointed out that the outural resources of the province yielded a total value of $1,-000,000,000 in 1920. The individual production of agriculture amounted to $500,000,000. The forests yielded wealth estimated at $115,000,000 during that year; minerals, $110,000,000; tur, neh and game, $5,000,000, and tourist traffic, $200,000,000.

McCren thinks there will be more discoveries of precious metals in the northern part of Ontario in the near future, which will make that territory the world's richest mineral country. Moreover, operations now under way upon lead, zine and copper deposits near the Sudbury district will soon result in a new base metal industry in the Sudbury nickel basin, the min lster thinks.

It was a small silver cross, perhaps ar, inch and a half long, "lost by some American soldler most 'ikely killed while advancing at Chateau Thierry." The donor was Major Mieding. One of the corners of the smaller arm of the cross had disappeared, as if it had been carried away by a bullet. Wes noticed this and smiled.

Wes drifted into a kind of calm reverle which fasted perliaps fifteen ulautes and might have lengthened into a half hour had he not been disturbed by the presence of another per son to the next room. Casually he glanced up and saw the intruder, who however, due to the darkness of the room, had not seen him. There was a bit of prettiness about her despite the pale, worn face, the whiteness of which was accentuated by her black dress and hat. Idly Wes followed her progress as she aimlessly wandered through the alsles. He would have bet his life that there was a scory in that girl.

From 's position the cabinet before which he had stood and examined the sliver cross a short time before, was plainly visible. The girl was passing it now. Her eyes swept the objects in this cabinet in a listless manner. Then she stopped in front of it and Wes saw her start. What was she looking at in that manner? She was speaking, speaking to something in the cabinet. With a

the girl could protest, he rushed her to a side stairway. "Beat It guick," he commanded, and elatching the cross, she disappeared. When two blue uniformed attend ants ran into the exhibit room they found a very bland reporter reaching through the broken glass of a case removing a gas mask that was adver tined as being found at Verdun. At rendy piled in his arms was a German star shell pistol, a dented metal mir ror and a manual on the operation of machine guns.

One of the crew of a big liner chanced to pick up a menu card, and, seeing at the top "Table d'hote," turned to his pal and inquired: What does this 'ere mean, Joe?"

"Well," said Joe, "it's like this 'ere. Them swells in the salon have some soup, a bit of fish, a bit of this, a bit of that, and a bit of summat else, and call it "table dottle." We have 'table dottle, only we mixes it all together and c" It Irish stew !"-London An-

English May Festivals

In England the May festival probably reached its highest development. How thoroughly recognized the custom became in that country is illustrated by the fact that in the reign of Henry VIII the heads of the corporation of London went out into the high grounds of Kent to gather the May with the king and his queen, Catherine of Aragon, coming from their palace of Greenwich and meeting these respected dignituries on Shooter's hill.

Adulterating With Water

Adding unnecessary water to canned goods manufactured for shipment and sale in interstate commerce is in violation of the federal food and drugs act. Inspectors of the food, drug and insecticide administration, United States Department of Agriculture, are constantly on the alert to detect and punish violators. Such adulterated food, if otherwise properly prepared, would not be harmful to the health of the consumer, but to his pocketbook. He would be buying water at food prices.

The city industrial worker has one chance in eight of living to be seventy years old. The farmer has one chance in three. So reports of a committee of the United Hospital Fund, New York, state. There, in a nutshell, you have a graphic picture of what civilization is doing to us. Health is close to the soll. The time is not far off when cities will in large part break up, factories moving to the open country and taking workers with them. Either that or man heads for extinction.

Farm Board and Chamber of Commerce of U. S. in Open Warfare.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

WARFARE between the federal farm board and business us represented by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States reached its elimax at the annual meeting of the chamber In Washington, Stung by bitter crit-Icism of the board's policies, Alexander Legge, its chairman, retored scathingly. As a member of the board he uttered a challenge to match any other member "dollar for dollar" in financing a permanent nonprofit making organization to work for farm betterment, a challenge that was later accepted by Julius II, Barnes, chairman of the loard of the chamber and wheat director under Herbert Honver during the war

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Floyd Unwin, unsuccessful in life's struggle, with his briend Howard Bettington, painter of some note, but not wealthy, take dinner with their college associate. Alfred gibbons, financial magnate. Unwin produces a written pledge which the three had taken while in college, to help each other in adversity, explaining that he needs financial assistance low for the education of his son Bob, and daughter Mary. Gibbons scotts at he "legality" of the pledge, but agrees o make a place for Unwin's daughter his organization. She is to call at its collice next day.

"A painter, ch?" said Gibbs, He crossed the room, took down from a shelf a pencil and a piece of paper.

These he handed to the other. "Prove it," he commanded. "Draw something."

Bettington hesitated for a moment. He was not a man who went the better for being driven. But it occurred to him that here was a solltary who was mentally unbulanced. He sketched in a few skillful strokes a portrait of the man standing there, his gun balanced in the crook of his arm, Jonathan Gibbs looked at it in si

"You surely can," said Jonathan Gibbs. "Pil boil the water and make you some coffee. I guess you're hun-

It was after the meal that Bettingthreaten you here?" "Jealousy," sald Gibbs, after a pause.

"I'm not a state of Maine man and I don't mix with anyone around. They don't understand that," Plainly the man had something to concent. After all, Bettington told himself, it was none of his business, i He had often met queer, Ingrown characters. He could not go out into the black night, now made doubly impassable by the deluge of rain. Gibbs made up the fire by packing a huge armful of wood into it. Bettington was awakened by the froma of coffee. Gibbs was holding Bettington's shoes up. "Dried stiff as boards," he announced. "They'll need to be greased before you can get into 'em, and your pants are torn pretty bad. I'll lend you an outilt, and you can get what you want down to Blackport. The sen's calm now and you can row across the bay in half an hour." The summer sun had tanned Bettington to a rich brown. In his senboots-the only ones Gibbs had to lend -his faded blue sweater and khaki shirt, he looked the sort of fishing type he had often painted.

At the dock he took a ten foot rowboat and set out to the village. He had gone, perhaps, half the distance. when a fast motor boat overhauled him, stackened speed as it passed and then swong round and walted in the path he was taking.

There were two men in it. One was a vasily broad clested man with a trim scenter and white canvas trousers. He had the look of a gacht sailor. The other, who was stroring the boat, had no physical peculiarities other than that general air of following the sea. "We've had an accident," said the broad-chested man and pointed to something at the bottom of the launch Bettington clong to the side of the drifting motor boat and stood up. There, on the bottom of the other craft, was a man lying immobile. And as the artist stooped over him, the recumbent salter gave a tremendous halfarm fab which enught flettington on the point of the law. The other ward and hauled blm on board where: unrouscions, he took the place of his assailant, who rose grinning.

The broad chested man, who was called Sam, clapped blm on the back in approval, "Dands," he cried. "And that rock prevents anyone seeing us from the village." Sam bent over the unconsclous form and neatly trussed it up with rope. "The Boss will be tickled to death over this. Stove in that rowboat, one of you."

A man with a boat hook smashed In some bottom boards and Jonathan Gibbs' dingly slowly filled with water. Then the launch put out of the bay, past the buoys, and headed north for Bar Harbor.

Bettington had recovered from the knock out within five minutes, the could see from the brightly polished brasswork and maliogany that he was in a yacht's Lounch. He knew that the hum of the motor would make any call for help useless. He had been neally knocked out and was now to be expeditionally shanglinged. It was were Mr. and Mes I. E. Sam, without ardmus, The thing was inexplicable. They knew him for himself, and knowing It, they were energing him off, bound with ropes, to the open sea.

There was seemingly no sort or personal grudge in this high-handed matter, The three men were carrying out orders.

"Listen, bo" said Sam, "we've got orders not to say a thing to you till the Boss sees you. It won't do you no good asking why we did it, or who we are. We had to get you alive and unharmed and we dld the best we

It was dark when the lights of Bar-Harbor came in sight. Bettington was carried up the gangway, across a deck and then placed in a small cable, lighted with a single porthole.

Sam untled the knots and watched the vietim stretch his stiff and cramped limbs.

"Just a word of warning," Sam remarked "You can't get out of that porthole and you can't get out of this at East Bethel. cabin. If you did. It wouldn't help you. If you're wise you'll walt till the Boss sends for you."

Sam turned the keys in the door and left him prisoner. As he examined his dungeon he heard the throbbing of machinery From the porthole he could see the boat was moving. He pulled off the heavy sen boots of Jonathan Gibbs and flung himself on the berth. In many adventures Bettington had learned that fretting and fuming were handlenps that men in danger should not take upon themselves.

Presently he fell asleep and was awakened by Sam.

"You ain't worrying," said Sam, grinning, "They tell me you always had your nerve with you. You won't be able to see the Boss tonight. He's hitting the pipe and it's as much as a man's life is worth to go in now, I haven't no authority to let you out till he gives the word, so I'll bring you a hite to ent here" Sam waddled out. Bettington was J. W. Reynolds' recently, ton asked him, "Why should anyone; still puzzled by his apparent friendli ness. ### Extra Valuable Share of "Catch" Not Wanted Fishing pullvities in the islands of Tuee and Sayo are operated on the communel principle, and the catch is equally divided among datiers at the close of the day. This custom is to be found all mer the West Highlands; in fact, about of direct marketing, it is the only femalie way in which fishing can be carried on. In some districts an extra share in awarded to the own er of the best, whether or not he bate pens to be a tually one of the crew engaged on a particular day, in Skye and the neighboring Islands this share is called "enid "hulla." An interesting superstitious bien regarding the cast ing of the lots at the divide survives in some districts. While the shares are always as near equality as it is possible to make them, it occasionally happens that one particularly good or rare fish gives the share on which it is placed a special value. The superstitious fisherman, however, would rather not have that particular share fall to his lot. The most covetous member of the crew, or one who is doomed to die young, will, according to popular belief, be sure to have his "mark" fall on that share.

Poland Offers Much to

Attract the Traveler Poland to many travelers is a country unknown. Yet to the tourist it offers much in the great variety of scenery, the richness and color of its native peasantry, and the charm and beauty of its myrlad churches and anclent rulns. Its art treasures, its architecture, its numerous museums, compare favorably with those of other Europenn countries.

Warsnw, the capital and largest city, has a population of over 1,000,000 persons and a history which dates back to the Thirteenth century. Since that time it has seen many changes and events which have helped to make the history of Europe. During the latter part of the Eighteenth century the city experienced a period of great splendor. It was then one of the largest cities of Europe and It became the very center of artistic, literary and scientific ncilvity, and had also a brilliant court of life. Gracow, only a few hours' ride from the capital, is really the heart of Poland, although Warsaw Is the sent of government.

Blooms of the Desert

Many floral dwellers of the desert are worthy of the bighest praise, says Nature Magazine, Among them are several abrubs and trees, which in their seasons, are bewitching bowers of bloom-the palo verde, with its cloud of yellow; the smoke tree, a solid mass of dark-blue; the meaquite, hazy with fringy catkins of yellowgreen; the desert willow, charming and attractive in a dress of plats and laven der; the scarlet chuparosa, and the white-leaved, sellow-flowered brittlebush, or golden bills. There are other ers apients the ocotillo, "candlebush" of the natives, most striking and unique of the Colorado desert flora. and the yuccas, with the Spanish bayoner, glorious in bloom, and the Joshua tree that grotesque plant creation which the Mojave desert claims as its most distinctive feature, mining as the leading representative.

Holland Land of Flowers

No one, says a traveler, will over forget Lin first sight of the acres and seres of myrlad colored Cowers in bleom in Hollaml. The speciacle is breath taking and every season of the year sees the land in some new beauty. In spring the built fields near Haarlem hald carnival from February. when the crease blooms, until August whom the inte stelloff are in flower.
